

Dangerous Goods (DG) Shipments

At EasyShop, we are committed to delivering your cargo safely, reliably, and in full compliance with international maritime and aviation laws. Because certain everyday items—such as aerosols, perfumes, hydraulic, and batteries—are classified as Dangerous Goods (DG), they require specialized handling to ensure the safety of the vessels, aircraft, and personnel transporting them.

We understand that shipping these items can feel complicated and costly, and we want to share a transparent look into how this process works and how we actively work to protect your bottom line.

The Reality of DG Handling & Surcharges

Due to strict international safety regulations, Dangerous Goods cannot simply be placed on a standard flight or vessel. Every single DG item must undergo rigorous physical inspection, precise chemical classification, and specialized hazardous documentation certified by a licensed DG specialist before any transportation company will accept it.

Because of the extensive labor, liability, and carrier penalties involved, transport networks levy steep hazardous surcharges on these items. These compliance and handling fees are entirely separate from our standard shipping rates.

How We Lower Costs for You: Group Shipping

To prevent our clients from having to pay these massive individual surcharges on small retail packages, we have engineered an affordable solution:

Consolidated Group Shipping.

- The 15-Package Minimum: We consolidate Dangerous Goods into secure bundles of a minimum of 15 packages before tendering them to the carrier. Grouping them allows us to split the heavy carrier fees among multiple shipments, passing the savings directly to you.

- The 30-Day Window: We actively work to fulfill this 15-package minimum as quickly as possible. If the minimum quota has not been reached within a 30-day period, the bundle will hold until the threshold is met to preserve the discounted rate.
- Expedited Options: We know that some shipments are time-sensitive. If you cannot wait for the bundle to fill and need your package immediately, simply contact our team. We will gladly provide an individual quote allowing you to pay the cost difference to expedite your shipment alone.

We truly appreciate your understanding and cooperation in keeping our supply chain safe and compliant. If you have any questions about whether an upcoming purchase is classified as a Dangerous Goods item, please reach out to our team before ordering—we are always here to help.
